

User Types Editor - Global Permissions Tab

 Additional Resources

1. In the Topic of the Day: Permissions Management Webinar, we discuss Projector's permission structures and help administrators identify efficient ways to model permissions in their organization.

 Global Permissions are used to control access to features which affect the entire system. They are divided into none, view and update. For an explanation of each line-item, see Global Permissions.

Access Level	Description
None	You cannot access or edit the feature
View	You are given read-only access to the feature
Update	You can view and edit the feature
